

THE PERFECT TRAIL BIKE.

THE FICTION:

"Four-strokes make the best trail bikes."

"Every bike manufacturer claims to have a bit of world champion in their bikes."

"All two-stroke trail bikes are basically the same."

"Whatever bike I buy for my first bike, I'll probably want to buy a different bike later on."

THE FACT:

Two-strokes have won the last 6 Motocross world championships and more than 80% of entrants have chosen two-strokes.

True, Yamaha aren't the only ones to have won a world championship, but if you're talking about the present and not the past, you're talking about Yamaha. Hakan Andersson rode a Yamaha to win the 1973 World Motocross Championship.

Try finding Yamaha's reed-valve force induction system and thermal-flow rear shock damping on other bikes. Or, if you're out on the trail, try beating one.

All Yamaha trail bikes are designed to put you in charge. Start up any Yamaha and from there on it's up to you and your skills. 100 cc to 250 Yamaha designs trail bikes that are easier to learn on and easier to win on.

When you choose Yamaha for '74, you're choosing the better machine. The World Champion. That's a fact.

YAMAHA.
